IT is a strange coincidence, but one that is nstructive to American' politicians especially, that both the great political leaders of England have changed completely in their publie course from what it was when they entered the arena of public life. Gladstone, the liberal, was a firm tory; Disraeli, the tory, was a liberal. Neither has lost by the liament for Sheffield who ded in that city, of the emperor's house, concealed under Saturday, was a staunch friend of the south. He was one of the most eccentric of Eaglish neen included in what is known as liberal egislation. In his time he fought several duels, and for a long time was known in parliament as the "Objector-General."

Russia is about to try the experiment of free government on a limited basis. The czar king notified his nobles of his purpose to call together an advisory council, to be composed of representatives elected by the middle and lower clauses and such of the nobility as he the beginning of the end. A few years more and we shall be called upon to reco.d the deliberations of the Russian parliament.

ANDREW TRACEY, a young lawyer who was condemned by the court of Smithport, Penusylvania, to be hanged to-morrow for murder of his equain and sweetheart, would, it was hoped, have been respited. A setition to that effect was out for signatures, that he should hang. Smithport is evidently not the place for poets. The people of that "port" are matter-of-fact folks and have no dea of tolerating any such damned nuisance as poets and poetry. We have seen the time when we could have fervently prayed for just one hour of Smithport.

THE decision of the English master of the rolls by which Mr. Labouchere, ex-member of parliament and editor of the London Frush, has been reinstated a member of the celebrated Beefsteak club, is, to say the least, instructive. Mr. Labouchere, in his paper, some months since, published an obituary notice of the late Mr. Lawton, one of the principal owners of the Daily Telegraph, which was excepted to by the surviving nephew and heir of that gentleman, who, finding Labouchere in front of the clubbouse one evening, assaulted and punished him for what he considered a libal upon his uncle and gross offense against good breeding. This lead to challenges that ended in mere words, and much of mutual recrimination. Finally the world growing tired of the squabble, the club took it up, and expelled both belligerents. From this decision Labouchere appealed to the courts, with the result stated. The question now is, will the Boefsteak club be satisfied with a decision which compels them to associate with one whom they covered with diagrage?

Mr. Gradetone seems to be of the opinion that a serious row and a little killing would just now be of advantage to the Irish avitators. He cites the murder of a policeman group years ago in Liverpool, and the attempt to blow up Newgale, in London, as having had a direct effect in opening the eyes of the British authorities to the enormity of the Irish established church. His argument is Irish established church. His argument is rish established church, His argum for such untoward effects, This it did, and the Irish established church tumbled. The shooting of a few more landlords in Ireland and landlordism, as it is there understood and felt, would also, he thinks, tumble, This we do not believe. The remedy for the This we do not believe. The remedy for the admitted evils of landlordism, not only in Iroland, but in Scotland and England, is to relief is necessary before such commission be found in a measure of reform too sweep- can complete its work satisfactorily, conseing for the average Briton-it is nothing less than the abolition of the law of primogeniture. When this goes, the whole aristo- mend the removal of snags and saudbars at cratic system of England will go, and not until them will there be as full a measure of land-reform as the interests of the people sixty days, otherwise that the government and also the possess of a law requiring the owners of sunken vessels to raise the wrecks within sixty days, otherwise that the government Bull's cough, and but for that reliable remedy, Dr. Bull's cough syrup, many would be in despair.

Colonel Snowden presented the following resolutions, which were read by Chairman Hadden, and on motion of Dr. D. T. Porter were adopted unanimously:

THE OLD CITY DEBT. Whereas, In addition to the severe trials which the people of Memphis are now undergoing on account of two epidemies, one following the other in quick succession, there is also a burden of a heavy public debt created by the extinct corporation which formerly governed the city, a litigation concerning the validity of which is now pending in the courts. We, a portion of the citizens of Memphis, without entering into a discussion of any of the reasons which justify the people in asking an abatement of the amount of said debt, declare it as the sense of this meeting—

amount of said debt, declare it as the sense of this meeting—

First—Be the result of said suit adverse or favoral is, the people of Memphis, in our opinion, will make a just, fair and equitable compromise with the holders of all valid bonds.

Second—We repudiate repudiation, and so far as our influence shall extend, will try and induce a public sentiment which shall favor and secure, not only the payment, but ample security for the payment of the principle and interest of any bonds nereafter to be issued by legal authority in pursuance of the terms of an honorable adjustment.

Third—We do not ask immediate legislation, because we are advised by the committee appointed by the legislature to report a fair adjustment of the debt, that on account of the brevity of the called session and the requirement that they shall report to the next regular session of the presidence, it would be better to postpone the question of said adjustment till the meeting of the regular session of the general assembly of the State of Tennessee.
